What does the "TB" column represent?

The heading for this column is TB (tie-breaker). When two teams are tied in points earned for round robin play, the determination of which team comes first is calculated using a specific set of tie-breakers identified by the event management prior to the start of the event. They can be found in the rules sheet. This column shows the tier breaker number that places one team ahead of the other. You can click on the tie breaker number to see an explanation. Occasionally, teams will remain tied after all the tie breakers are applied and the event must use another rule to break the tie, such as a shootout or a coin toss.
